

Statements:

1. Your parents are going on holidays next month and they have offered to pay for you to go with them. Do you stay at home, or go with them?
2. You're at a party and the person you've been dating has gone off with someone else. Do you stay or leave the party?
3. You're hanging out at night outside with your friends. One of your friends is drunk and the Guards are on the way. Do you stay or leave?
4. You're in a WhatsApp group with your colleagues. Three or four of them start talking about refugees. They use racist and ignorant words. Do you stay in the chat or do you leave?
5. You've been offered the chance to move for a year in another country for a study/work experience. Do you stay or do you go?
6. The economic crisis has drastically reduced the opportunity to find a job in your country. Your friends suggest going to a new country where you could find a job. Do you stay or do you go?
7. You're out with friends and you see an army fighter jet overhead. Do you stay or do you go home?
8. You're watching the news on TV, and they say that a war has begun in another part of your country. Do you stay or do you leave your country?
9. There are rumours that the town next to yours is going to be bombed in the coming months. Do you stay or leave? (Facilitator, note: refer to their real life town and the town next to theirs)
10. You've paid your life's savings for a place on a boat across the sea to escape the bombs and war. You are on the shore and you have just realised that there is no life jacket for you. Do you stay or leave?