

ROLE PLAY: APPROACHING FEAR @WORK

Situation:

You are a boss of a small, but wealthy company. You love your new bought computer and do not let anyone use it. Yesterday you had a very successful day—sent your emails, check FOREX, and online bank accounts, watched a movie. Today you discover the computer won't start – it definitely has a virus. You are angry and want to punish the guilty. You also have urgent emails to send.

You are an overworking and underpaid employee who is afraid of losing his/her job since you have 3 kids. You often work long hours and yesterday when everyone was gone you decided to use your boss computer to finish an important report. You also downloaded a funny video for the kids. Today you see your angry boss whose computer has caught a virus. You are in panic and decide not to tell anyone that you have used it.